About Universities

The TEC funds eight universities through Student Achievement Component funding. These organisations range from those receiving funding for fewer than 2,000 to over 25,000 equivalent full-time student places.

However universities are also expected to do more than teaching and learning. Universities have an important research role. The performance information presented here does not include information about research.

The type of students at a specific university will influence its performance. For example, part-time and extra-mural students often have work or family commitments and cannot devote as much time and energy to their studies. They may also have different study goals. For example, Massey University has a large extra-mural roll.

Government expectations of Universities

The Government expects universities to:

- Enable a wide range of students to successfully complete degree and postgraduate qualifications
- Undertake internationally recognised research
- Create and share new knowledge that contributes to New Zealand's economic and social development and environmental management

Tertiary Education Strategy

The Tertiary Education Strategy calls for better performance from the tertiary education sector as well as raising achievement for all learners under 25, and for Māori and Pacific learners.
